Strellson Makes Clothes For Guys Who Pursue Their Own Paths

BY MR MAGAZINE STAFF
DEC 23, 2020

As highly-respected global brand Strellson enters the U.S. market for fall '21, MR speaks with Strellson's head of design Marco Tomasi about why U.S. menswear stores need the fabulous fall collection. (Editor's note: Strellson and JOOP! are both divisions of Holy Fashion Group.)

Q: How would you describe the DNA of the Strellson brand?

A: Strellson is a modern, masculine, contemporary brand with a Swiss heritage. We see the Strellson customer as an independent, energetic young man, and when I say young, I mean in mindset. For sure he's authentic, as we view Strellson as a way of being rather than a way of dressing. Our brand description sums it up perfectly:

Joop! America's Next Hot Brand

BY MR MAGAZINE STAFF
JAN 22, 2021

Gregor Langenbacher

In an effort to bring to life the DNA of this iconic global brand, so perfect for a new consumer mindset that values comfort, style, versatility, and sustainability, we interview JOOP! head of design Gregor Langenbacher and Strellson North America Ltd CEO Mark Alton.

Q: Could you first address your current distribution and why you're targeting U.S. specialty stores at this precious time?

Mark: JOOP! evolved from its roots as a German club label to become an international lifestyle brand, now distributed in many Western European countries as well as in Russia. It was successfully launched in Canada almost three years ago and counts Harry Rosen and top independent stores among its customer base.

Even though current market conditions are challenging, we believe it's an ideal time to introduce the brand to the American market. Clearly, there's serious brand fatigue regarding many of the designer names of the last 20 years, due in part due to over distribution. So many of these tried designer labels can be found in department stores, off-price and discount outlets, mono-brand shops and their outlets, and various online channels.

Our plan is to focus JOOP! distribution in the U.S. solely on upscale specialty stores and their own e-commerce channels. This will enable independent retailers to more profitably introduce and nurture the brand over the short, medium, and long terms.

Q: Who is JOOP!'s target customer?

Gregor: In general, we address men over 30. But our goal is to arouse desire, regardless of age, through a certain sophisticated aesthetic and style.

For us, the JOOP! man is a modern, confident guy who enjoys living life to the fullest. He represents urban style but with an elegant twist - no matter his age. This is exactly the approach we're taking with our collections. At the end of the day, it's the customer's inner rebel that counts. "Some people are old at 18 and some are young at 80." That's the motto that has guided us.
